Day 2 (Iguazú Waterfalls)

Breakfast. Visit to the Argentine side of world famed Iguazú Falls - 275 separate waterfalls that form a horseshoe along the border with Brazil. The falls are mainly surrounded by Iguazú National Park, a tropical forest designated In 1986 by the UNESCO a Natural Heritage of Humanity site. The semicircular waterfall at the heart of this site is some 80 mt high and 2,700 mt in diameter and is situated on a basaltic line spanning the border between Argentina and Brazil. Made up of many cascades producing vast sprays of water, it is the most spectacular waterfalls in the world. The surrounding subtropical rainforest has over 2,000 species of vascular plants and is home to the typical wildlife of the region: tapirs, giant anteaters, howler monkeys, ocelots, jaguars and caimans.

Paseo Superior (Upper Path).

The path covers 1.1 km round trip. This path has no climbs but it allows visitors to access to the highest footbridges above the main waterfalls. You will enjoy a panoramic view of the falls as well as the delta of the Iguazú River, with its islands filled with lush with vegetation. This path is the one that requires the lowest level of effort of the three main paths. The walk can be easily completed in one hour.

Paseo Inferior (Lower Path).

This circular path covers 1.2 km in total, and allows you to observe the majority of the falls, from different perspectives: including from the front and down the falls themselves; with wide views or in direct contact with the water. You can even feel the spray from the Bossetti waterfall. These footbridges also allow you to experience the jungle up close. This walk can be completed in two hours, but keep in mind that there are many stairs to climb, the equivalent of 8 floors.

Garganta del Diablo (Devil's Throat).

This natural wonder can be reached by the Train of the Falls, arriving to Devil's Throat Station. From there it is a 1000 mt walk winding through islands, until arriving at the balconies in front of Devil's Throat. The total duration of this walk is two hours. Ask for the schedule of the last train before heading off. It is an easy walk, without stairs.

Option 1: SAFARI MACUCO

For those who love to observe nature, this is one of the most popular hiking options in the Park. This is in an ancient part of the forest, and its 3.6 km (one way only) takes you into the heart of the jungle. The departure point to the path is located only a few meters from the Research Center. At the end of the path, you will reach a waterfall that is semi-hidden by the jungle: the Arrechea Fall, which has a small beach in which swimming is NOT allowed. The path that leads down to the waterfall has a high degree of difficulty. This walk is a unique opportunity to get to know the jungle, and with a bit of luck, the animals that inhabit it. The walk takes two hours to complete, and you should bring water and insect repellent. We recommend that you request a map from the information office, which will also provide you with all necessary information. Another piece of good advice: do not enter after 4 PM in the winter (5pm in the summer), because you won't have enough time to return before it gets dark.

Option 2: GREAT ADVENTURE

The best boating trip in the area is called "Gran Aventura" (Big Adventure). It begins in the port across from San Martin Island. From there, in semi-rigid rubber boats, you will approach both the Argentine falls (including the Devil's Throat Cannon) and the Brazilian Falls where you will be "baptized by the mist." Then you will travel by boat for 8 km more on the lower Iguazú river and experience the rapids. Upon arriving at Puerto Macuco you will do a short hike on jungle paths until arriving at the 4x4 vehicles that will take you back, via the Yaracatiá trail. The total duration is about an hour, with a certain degree of difficulty, and there are stairs. It is NOT recommended for people with heart problems or pregnant women.
